Presale Chat Flow Overview

Presale Chat Flow

1. Greeting & Acknowledgement
2. Promotion & Setting Expectations
3. Discovery / Probing Questions
4. Recommend the Best Plan
5. Highlight Key Benefits
6. Guide the Customer to Purchase
7. Offer Continued Support
8. Close the Interaction

Stage of Interaction	Best Practice
Greeting and Acknowledgement	Acknowledge the customer's inquiry and create a friendly tone. • Be friendly and approachable. • Confirm that you can assist with eSIM-related questions. • Avoid overwhelming the customer with too much information immediately.
Promotion and Setting of Expectations	After answering the customer's initial question, position the promotions available on the app to keep their attention and prevent chat disconnections: Example scenario: A customer initially contacted us about whether or not we have data plans for China. "Yes, we do offer a data plan that works in China. We're also currently running a 50% discount for the first 500,000 travelers, which you can take advantage of while the promotion is available. If you'd like, I can also help check whether our service will work well for your trip and guide you to the best option. Just let me know your travel details, and I'll be happy to assist."

Discovery / Probing Questions	After addressing the customer's initial query/reason for contact, we need to understand the customer's exact travel and connectivity needs before recommending a plan. Prefacing your questions with a disclaimer can help you check if a customer would be receptive to answering these questions, as well. The Support Team MAY ask questions such as: • Destination - "Which country or countries will you be traveling to?" • Travel Dates - "When will you be traveling, and how long will your trip be?" • Device Compatibility - "Just to confirm, are you using an eSIM-compatible and carrier-unlocked device?" ◦ If the customer is unsure - "No worries, I can help you check if your device supports eSIM." • General Use Case - "May I ask how you intend to use the data plan, too? Browsing, streaming, etc.?" Best Practices: • Ask 1–2 questions at a time instead of sending a long list. • Personalize based on the customer's responses. • Avoid sounding like a form or script.

Recommend the Best Plan	Guide the customer toward the most suitable option based on their needs. Furthermore, show the customer that you understand their needs by incorporating it to the recommendation. Example: “Based on your trip, our Japan 7-Day unlimited data plan would be a great option. It should ensure that you have enough connectivity for browsing, messaging, and streaming during your stay.” Best Practices: • Highlight why the plan fits their needs • Avoid listing too many plans • Focus on 1–2 recommendations
Explain Key Benefits (Briefly)	Customers often want reassurance before purchasing. If they are not convinced yet, you can proceed with mentioning the benefits of using an eSIM. Example: “With our eSIM, you’ll be able to connect to the internet as soon as you arrive, as long as you’ve set up the eSIM properly and have good connectivity. The installation is quick, and your data plan automatically activates once you’re in the destination.” Optional points agents can mention: • Instant delivery • No physical SIM required • Easy installation • Reliable network connections • 24/7 live chat support • Refund policy (6 mos. refund policy - as long as no usage, and 1 year to use it)

Stage of Interaction	Best Practice
Guide the Customer to Purchase and Set Proper Expectations	Once the customer is ready, make the next step clear and simple. Example: "You can purchase the plan directly from our app." "If you'd like, I can walk you through the purchase process as well." Specific Steps: 1. Download the holiday.com app—available on select devices only. 2. Sign up, select your destination, and choose the duration that matches your needs. For you, we recommend getting a {insert plan that matches the customer's needs}. 3. Enter your payment details and complete the purchase on the checkout screen. Note: You have 365 days to install and activate your eSIM. To avoid early activation, tap "Turn on eSIM" in the app only after arrival to enable data roaming and start your plan."
Offer Further Assistance	Always close the conversation by keeping support available. Example: "If you have any questions during installation or while traveling, feel free to reach out. Our Support Team is available anytime to help!"
Close the Interaction	Leave the customer with a good impression of the service. Example: "In the meantime, can I help you with anything else?"

Educating and compelling body with CTA

Hello [REDACTED]

Thank you for contacting holiday.com Support.

I completely understand that transparency in pricing is essential when planning your travels.

holiday.com manages all data plan selections, real-time pricing, and purchases directly through our mobile app. This ensures that you receive the most accurate rates and seamless eSIM installation for your device.

To view our current pricing and available destinations:

1. Download and open the holiday.com app on your mobile phone.
2. Browse the Regional or Single Country options.
3. For your specific trip, we highly recommend the China Plan.

The original price in the app for our 30-day China plan is $76.26 USD.

While our standard 30-day China plan is valued at $76.26 USD, I have some great news! We have a 50% discount for our first 500K travelers.

Instead of the regular rate, you can currently grab it for just $38.13. That's a full month of premium connectivity for half the price! It's easily the most cost-effective way to stay connected in China. Let us know so we can get you set up and don't miss out on these savings!

On the other hand, to check the list of compatible devices with our eSIM, you may also view this from the holiday.com app:

1. Open the holiday.com app, then tap your profile at the top-right corner.
2. Select Device Compatibility, then select your operating system.

We would love the opportunity to keep you connected during your travels. Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Regards,

ZTF Update: Sales Opportunity

ZTF Update: Sales Opportunity

We've further optimized the options for the Sales Opportunity ZTF to make them a better fit with how eSIM data plan works.

What changed?

- Removed the Yes – Existing Inactive and Yes – Active Renewal options since they're not appropriate with how eSIM data plan works.
- Added Yes – Additional Purchase for customers with an existing eSIM who purchased a new/additional data plan.
- Changed the term "subscription" to "data plan" on all ticket field options.
- Provided additional scenarios for the No option:
 - Customers who redeemed a coupon with no additional purchase
 - Customers who encountered payment issues during checkout

The Value-First Sales Mindset

The play

Our strategy relies on the principle that "customer education beats persuasion" We do not just sell data bundles; We understand the customer's entire sentiment immediately map the customer's travel frustrations to our unique, industry-leading features, the goal is to effectively communicate how we can help solve their pain.

Pain: Wasting money on fixed bundles → Solution: Ultimate Flexibility. Emphasize our Pay-per-Day Customization slider bar, allowing them to pay for the exact days they need

Pain: Hassle of new QR codes every trip → Solution: Permanent Connectivity. Highlight One eSIM for Life, a single profile installation that works across 150+ destinations forever

Pain: Losing access to home numbers → Solution: Zero Interruption. Reassure them that our eSIM Runs Alongside their Physical SIM, keeping WhatsApp and 2FA active

Pain: Uncertainty of when to activate → Solution: Risk-Free Planning. Explain our 365-Day Activation Window, letting them buy now with zero pressure to activate until they travel

Effective Communication

The P.A.Y.S. Consultative Framework - Quick, Feature-First Value Selling

We ideally use the P.A.Y.S. framework to control the conversation and drive urgency without sounding like a script:

P - Profile (Identify Pain Points): Get to the root of their need in 2-3 messages
Ask direct context questions like, "What was the most frustrating part of getting online on your last trip?"

A - Assess & Articulate Value (Lead with Solution): Instantly present the unique holiday.com feature that solves the exact pain point they just mentioned

Y - Yield Incentives (Create Urgency): Drop the high-impact offer immediately after establishing value

Remind them that the "50% off your first purchase" hook is strictly limited to our first 500,000 travelers

S - Secure Commitment (Close the Sale): Confirm the benefit works for them ("So, getting the exact days you need works for you?"), then use the limited discount to push an incentive-driven close

Closing the sale

Master the Pivot: Strategic CTA Placement - When and How to Drop Your Call-to-Action

A Call-to-Action (CTA): Effective CTAs should never feel like an interruption. To maximize conversion rates, we need to deploy strong CTAs at two primary conversational pivots

Pivot 1: Post-Value Articulation (After the 'A' in P.A.Y.S.)

The Goal: Capitalize on the "aha!" moment right after you match their pain point to our feature

Example: "That hassle is gone with holiday.com. Click here to install your permanent profile now, so you never worry about downloading another QR code again."

Pivot 2: Post-Incentive Yield (After the 'Y' in P.A.Y.S.)

The Goal: Leverage Fear of Missing Out (FOMO) right after mentioning the 50% off promo

Example: "The 50% off deal ends at 500,000 travelers and we're nearing the limit. Configure your days now to lock in the discount before it's gone."
